Job Description:
Freelance translator
BILD.com
14.07.08 – 31.09.08

Alison worked for BILD.com as a German to English freelance translator.

Her translation work was always first class. Not only was she fast, she also showed very good journalistic skills to be able to convert a literal translation of a German story into the English tabloid style of BILD.com.

Alison learnt to use our content management system Coremedia proficiently and adapted very quickly to the demands of the job. She was extremely dedicated to the job and put in lots of unpaid overtime to ensure the work was finished.

Alison is a very likeable and easy going person, who works well under pressure and within a team. I wish her the best of luck and have no doubt that she will thrive in any job that she applies herself to in the future.
